

Contents

Lectures on British literature	9
 Part I (till 1700)
The formative factors of the Old English culture	13
The spectrum of Old English poetic genres	16
Anglo-Saxon prose	22
Social and cultural aftermath of the Norman Conquest	24
Utilitarian, scholarly and religious works in the Anglo-Norman period ..	26
Lyrics and satirical poetry of the Anglo-Norman period	28
The rise and early development of the chivalric romance	29
Intellectual trends in late Middle Ages (1340-1500)	32
The alliterative revival in poetry	35
Geoffrey Chaucer (c. 1340-1400)	37
Chaucer's followers and the anonymous poetry of the age	44
The beginnings of drama in the Middle Ages	48
The beginnings of the Renaissance: Reformation and humanism (1516-1578)	50
The rise of the English sonnet	54
Drama at the beginning of the Renaissance	57
Cultural traits of the mid-Renaissance (1578-1625)	60
Major poets of the Renaissance. The development of sonnet cycles	62
Renaissance prose	68
Drama of the University Wits	71
William Shakespeare (1564-1616). The historical plays	74
Shakespeare's tragedies	78
Shakespeare's comedies. Shakespearean sonnets	87
Shakespeare's contemporaries. The genre spectrum of drama in the decline of the Renaissance	95
Prose in the post-Renaissance transitional years (1625-1660)	99
Metaphysicals, Cavaliers, and other poets of the baroque	100
John Milton (1608-1674)	105
Cultural changes in the Restoration (1660-1700)	108
Restoration drama	111
Restoration poetry and prose	114

Part II (1700-1885)

General view of neoclassicism. The Augustan Age (1700-1740).....	120
Augustan prose	124
Poetry in the Augustan Age	130
The Age of Johnson (1740-1770). Towards pre-Romanticism (1770-1798)	135
The rise and development of the novel	138
Laurence Sterne (1713-1768)	144
Drama of the neoclassical period	148
Sentimental leanings in poetry	150
Poetry of pre-Romanticism	153
The pre-Romantic novel	160
Romanticism (1800-1832) as an intellectual trend	163
Romantic theory and practice in poetry	165
A synthetic overview of the genre spectrum in Romantic poetry	176
Drama in Romanticism	179
The familiar essay	181
Fiction in Romanticism	184
The Victorian Age. Socio-political tendencies and intellectual trends	190
Main tendencies in Victorian poetry	199
The spectrum of mimetic genres in Victorian fiction.....	209
Between the novel and romance.....	219
Drama in the Victorian Age.....	223

Part III (1885-c.1990)

The turn of the century (1885-1918)	226
The inheritance of Victorian fiction: documentalists and satirists	232
Tradition and new genre structures of romance. The development of popular literature	237
Joseph Conrad (1857-1924)	246
Changes in theatre and drama. G. B. Shaw (1856-1950)	252
Changes in theatre and drama. The Celtic Revival	259
Poetry at the turn of the century	262
Towards the Modernist revolution in poetry	267

The personal and the universal in the poetry of T. S. Eliot	270
William Butler Yeats (1865-1939)	275
The striding revolution. G. M. Hopkins's poetic theory and practice	279
The poetic panorama between Imagism and neo-Romanticism	284
The birth of modern fiction	292
The Modernist experiments of James Joyce (1882-1941)	295
Pillars of Modernist fiction	302
Fiction after 1930. Satiric tendencies	308
Fiction after 1930. Mimetic interests	313
Inheritance of romance. Popular literature	318
Drama between 1920 and 1955	325
Towards post-Modernism and the absurd. Revolution in drama	330
Poetry of the last decades	341
Conventional interests and traditional techniques in contemporary fiction	346
Towards patterned visions, intertextual awareness, and syncretic structures	351
Postscriptum. Some memorable novels of 1980's	362
Nota bibliograficzna	367
Index	368