

Contents

Preface	page	ix
1	Introduction to functional grammatical analysis	1
1.1	Introduction	1
1.2	Analysing grammar within a functional framework	3
1.3	An overview of systemic functional linguistics	4
1.4	The goal of grammatical analysis	12
1.5	Exercises	13
1.6	Further reading	14
2	The units of language analysis	16
2.1	Introduction	16
2.2	The clause: elements and units	19
2.3	Word and group classes	26
2.4	An initial view of the clause: representing functions and structures	37
2.5	Summary	42
2.6	Exercises	42
2.7	Further reading	43
3	The grammar of things: the nominal group	44
3.1	Introduction to referring expressions	44
3.2	The nominal group	46
3.3	Tests for recognizing nominal group boundaries	63
3.4	Worked example of the nominal group analysis	67
3.5	Exercises	70
3.6	Further reading	70
4	Representing experience	71
4.1	Introduction	71
4.2	Analysing experiential meaning	71
4.3	Tests for analysing processes, participants and circumstances	81
4.4	Functional-structural view of the experiential strand of meaning	93
4.5	Summary	107
4.6	Exercises	107
4.7	Further reading	108
5	Orienting language	109
5.1	Introduction	109
5.2	Goals and limitations of the chapter	110
5.3	The role of subject and its place in the clause	110
5.4	The Finite element	115

Contents

5.5	Modality	120
5.6	Polarity	121
5.7	An interpersonal view of the clause	122
5.8	Mood	134
5.9	Summary	137
5.10	Exercises	137
5.11	Further reading	138
6	Organizing language	139
6.1	Introduction	139
6.2	A textual view of the clause	139
6.3	Theme and Mood	142
6.4	Types of Theme	147
6.5	Thematic constructions	153
6.6	Analysing Theme	155
6.7	Texture	166
6.8	Summary	171
6.9	Exercises	172
6.10	Further reading	172
7	From text to clause	174
7.1	Introduction	174
7.2	Textual Themes and clause boundaries	175
7.3	Combining clauses	175
7.4	Identifying clause boundaries	180
7.5	Summary	188
7.6	Exercises	188
7.7	Further reading	189
8	Guidelines for grammatical analysis	190
8.1	A focus on written texts	190
8.2	Summary of grammatical tests	191
8.3	The three-strand analysis	192
8.4	Summary	216
8.5	Exercises	217
8.6	Further reading	218
9	There and back again: interpreting the analysis	219
9.1	Introduction	219
9.2	Patterns of meaning in text	221
9.3	Final remarks	237
9.4	Exercises	238
9.5	Further reading	239
10	Answers to exercises	240
10.1	Chapter 1	240
10.2	Chapter 2	241
10.3	Chapter 3	242

Contents

10.4 Chapter 4	243
10.5 Chapter 5	250
10.6 Chapter 6	251
10.7 Chapter 7	254
10.8 Chapter 8	255
10.9 Chapter 9	267
Notes	278
References	279
Index	282