

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

1 Psychology in education 5

Introduction 5

Positivist approaches to learning 6

Behaviourism 7

Cognitive approaches to learning 8

Information processing 9

Constructivism 10

Humanism 12

Sociocultural perspectives 14

Ecological and complexity perspectives 17

Summary 21

Suggestions for further reading 22

2 Groups 23

Introduction 23

Groups, culture, and communities 24

The language classroom as a community and physical space 27

The individual and the group 29

Group dynamics 31

Group formation processes 33

Leadership and group roles 34

Power in the classroom 37

Competitions, collaborations, and cooperation 37

Group cohesion 39

Summary 41

Suggestions for further reading 42

3 The self 43

Introduction 43

Why is it so important for teachers to understand the self? 45

Multiple ways of understanding the self 46

Self-efficacy and second language linguistic self-confidence 46

Self concept 47

Self-esteem 48

Identity 49

How does an individual form a sense of self? 52

Cultural factors 52

Experiences of success and failure 53

Internal comparisons 53

Feedback 53

Social comparisons 55

Self-driven behavioural styles 56

Promoting a healthy sense of self in learners 57

Summary 58

Suggestions for further reading 59

4 Beliefs 61

Introduction 61

What are beliefs? 61

Believing or knowing? 63

Belief in context 65

Beliefs and cultural background 65

Situational and interactional factors 66

Emotional factors 67

Beliefs across time 67

Types of beliefs 68

Epistemological beliefs 68

Implicit beliefs and mindsets 69

Attributions 71

Working with beliefs in the classroom 74

Beliefs about how to teach and learn 74

Beliefs about each other 76

Summary 77

Suggestions for further reading 77

5 Affect 79

Introduction 79

What is affect? 80

Why are emotions so important? 81

The nature of emotions 82

Affect in language learning 86

Anxiety 87

Positive emotions 91

Emotional intelligence 94

Summary 96

Suggestions for further reading 97

6 Motivation 99

Introduction 99

What is motivation? 99

Defining motivation 100

Cognitive theories of motivation 102

Achievement and competence 102

Goals 103

Self-determination theory 106

Emotions and context 109

Review 110

Key developments in foreign language learning motivation theory 111

Historical origins 111

Moving away from social psychology 112

Motivation as self-realization 114

Dörnyei's L2 Motivational Self System 114

Motivation in the classroom 117

Motivation and successful language learning 117

Motivation, unpredictable learners, and unpredictable learning 117

Motivation and the teacher 119

Summary 120

Suggestions for further reading 120

7 Agency and self-regulation 121

Introduction 121

Agency 121

Strategies 124

Unhelpful strategies 127

The role of context 128

Pedagogical implications 128

Learning styles 130

Self-regulation 130

Goals 131

Metacognition 133

Summary 135

Suggestions for further reading 136

8 Bringing it together 137

Introduction 137

Willingness to communicate (WTC) 139

A guide to structuring more holistic thinking about psychology 142

Principles for practice 144

Summary 147

Suggestions for further reading 148

Glossary 149

References 157

Index 169