

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
1 Introduction	1
A Cultural Studies Perspective	1
The Aims of the Book	2
The Organization of the Book	4
PART I QUALITATIVE RESEARCH AND CULTURAL STUDIES
2 What is Qualitative Research?	6
The Principle of Quantitative Analysis	8
The Phases of Qualitative Analysis	11
Idiographic and Nomothetic Features	18
The Social Survey and Qualitative Research	19
3 What is Cultural Studies?	23
A New Discipline?	23
On the Concept of Culture	25
The Meaning of Meaning	26
Meaning and Norm	30
The Social Construction of Classifications	33
The Concept of Meaning and Cultural Studies	35
PART II THE PRODUCTION OF OBSERVATIONS
4 Theoretical Framework and Method	38
Scientific Research and Pragmatic Survey	38
Observations and Clues	39
Theoretical Framework	39
Method	41
The Idiosyncrasy of Qualitative Material	42
5 The Factist Perspective	47
Making Typologies	48
Indicators and Testimonies	50
The Survey as an Indicator Approach	53
Fieldwork as a Combination of Indicator and Testimony
Approaches	56

The Life-Story Method as a Testimony Approach	58
The Testimonial Use of the Social Survey	60
Combining Factist and Specimen Perspectives	61
6 Cultural Distinctions	63
Semiotics as a Theoretical Basis	65
The Membership Categorization Device	66
Emic and Etic	67
Distinction Systems and Other Reality	68
7 Narrativity	70
What is a Story?	71
Narrative Analysis within Social Research	73
The Use of Narratology in Analyzing Other Types of Text	78
Plot Structure and the Story as a Whole	82
8 The Interaction Perspective	85
The Research Relationship and Interaction Perspective	86
The Frames of Interviews	90
Personal Interviews and Group Discussions as Data	91
Organized Situations and Naturally Occurring Data	94
Rhetoric	95
9 The Structures of Interaction	101
Conversation Analysis	101
Contextualizing the CA Perspective	104
The Concept of Face	108
Frames and Discourses	111
Power and Knowledge in Discourse	115
10 Cross-Tabulation and Quantitative Analysis	116
Arranging the Observations in Tabular Form	117
Boolean Algebra and Qualitative Comparison	118
Quantitative Analysis	123
Qualitative and Quantitative Analysis as a Continuum	130
 PART III UNRIDDLING
11 Asking Why	133
Cross-Cultural Comparison	135
Contradictions with Other Research	136
Relationship to Public Images	137
The Search for Incomplete Typologies	138
Internal Contradictions within the Research Material	138
The Search for Norms	139

The Search for Analogies and Umbrella Concepts	140
12 Generalization	143
The Standard View	143
Generalization is Not Always a Problem	145
Purification of Observations as a Generalizing Operation	147
Unriddling as Generalization	152
The Research Process and Generalizability	155
13 The Research Process	158
Where Does the Research Process Begin?	159
From Theoretical Framework to Local Explanation	162
From Local Explanation to Theoretical Ideas	166
Qualitative Research as Hypothesis-Testing	169
Research Designs and Reality	174
The End of the Process is the Beginning of Another One	175
14 The Writing Process	177
'Fieldwork' as a Textual Process	178
The Macrostructure in Writing	179
The Microstructure	186
Critique does Not Equal Complaint	192
References	193
Index	201