

---

Contents

---

Introduction

- |   |   |   |
|---|---|---|
| 1 | Edmund Burke, In Defence of Prejudice (1790)         | 3 |
| 2 | R. H. S. Crossman, English Distrust of Theory (1965) | 4 |

I Does The British Constitution Exist? 7

A. The Unwritten Constitution 7

- |   |   |    |
|---|---|----|
| 1 | A. V. Dicey, Written and Unwritten Constitutions (1885)  | 9  |
| 2 | A. V. Dicey, The Conventions of the Constitution (1885)  | 10 |
| 3 | Thomas Paine, There is no English Constitution (1791)    | 11 |
| 4 | Samuel Taylor Coleridge, The Idea of the State (1830)    | 12 |
| 5 | Lord Hailsham, A Model for a Written Constitution (1976) | 13 |
| 6 | Lord Scarman, The Need for a Written Constitution (1992) | 14 |

B. The Ancient Constitution 15

- |    |   |    |
|----|---|----|
| 7  | Lord Acton, The Progress of Liberty (1895)                               | 18 |
| 8  | Sir David Lindsay Keir, Constitutional Continuity and Flexibility (1964) | 19 |
| 9  | Ferdinand Mount, An Objection (1992)                                     | 20 |
| 10 | Edmund Burke, The Ancient Constitution (1790)                            | 20 |
| 11 | T. H. B. Oldfield, Anglo-Saxon Democracy (1816)                          | 21 |
| 12 | The Norman Yoke (1649)   | 23 |
| 13 | Lord Bolingbroke, An Appeal to Reason not the Past (1738)                | 24 |
| 14 | Jeremy Bentham, Matchless Constitution? (1824)                           | 24 |

C. Present Perspectives 25

- |    |   |    |
|----|---|----|
| 15 | R. H. S. Crossman, A Labour Cabinet and Parliamentary Control (1966) | 27 |
|----|---|----|

16	The Interests of the State – R. v. Ponting (1985)	28
17	Enoch Powell, Parliamentary Government (1978)	30
18	Charter 88 – A Flawed Democracy (1988)	31

II Crown and Parliament, Government and People 34

A. Mixed Government 34

1	Sir John Fortescue, Royal and Political Dominion (c.1473)	37
2	Sir Thomas Smith, Supremacy of Parliament (1589)	37
3	James VI and I, Divine Right of Kings (1610)	38
4	Assertion of Parliamentary Rights (1628)	40
5	Charles I, Royalist Assertion of Mixed Government (1642)	42
6	Sir William Blackstone, The Balanced Constitution (1765)	44
7	Sir William Blackstone, Parliamentary Sovereignty (1765)	45

B. Cabinet Government and 'Elective Dictatorship' 46

8	Walter Bagehot, Dignified and Efficient Parts of the Constitution (1867)	49
9	Lord Bolingbroke, Types of Monarchy (1738)	53
10	Loss of Back-Benchers' Independence (1914)	54
11	R. H. S. Crossman, Cabinet Government and Prime Ministerial Government (1964)	55
12	R. H. S. Crossman, The Demise of Cabinet Government (1965)	57
13	Lord Hailsham, Elective Dictatorship (1976)	58

C. Government, Parliament and the People 60

14	Edmund Burke, The MP as Representative (1774)	62
15	James Bryce, Elections as Mandates (1888)	63
16	John Morley, Elections as Choices of Government (1911)	63
17	Douglas Wass, Referenda – A Critical View (1983)	64

III Representation of Groups 66

A. The Original Principles of Representation 66

1	William Shakespeare, Degree, Priority, and Place (c.1602)	68
2	William Shakespeare, The Division of Labour (1599)	70

B. Estates and Communities	70
3 Benjamin Disraeli, The Estates of the Realm (1844)	73
4 Edmund Burke, A Natural Aristocracy (1791)	74
5 W. E. Gladstone, The English Love a Lord (1871)	76
6 Thomas Paine, Titles are but Nicknames (1791)	77
7 Robert Southey, The Creation and Sale of Titles (1807)	78
8 The Parliament Act (1911)	79
9 Lord Hailsham, A Democratic Second Chamber (1978)	79
C. Property and Interests	80
10 John Locke, Government as Defender of Property Rights (1690)	84
11 James Harrington, Property and Political Power (1661)	85
12 Adam Smith, Economic Structures and Political Authority (1766)	86
13 Lord Macaulay, Economic Change and Constitutional Reform (1831)	87
14 George Eliot, Industrial Growth and Parliamentary Reform (1866)	88
15 Lord Liverpool, Representation of Interests: A Tory View (1793)	91
16 Lord John Russell, Representation of Interests: A Whig View (1821)	92
17 Sir Robert Inglis, In Defence of the Unreformed House of Commons (1831)	92
18 Edmund Burke, Virtual Representation (1792)	93
19 Edmund Burke, Parliament as Representative of National Interest (1774)	93
20 James Mill, Sinister Interests (1820)	94
21 William Lovett, Working-class Representation (c.1836)	95
22 Christabel Pankhurst, Representation of Women (1905)	96
23 Aneurin Bevan, Working-class MPs (1952)	97
24 Margaret Thatcher, A Critique of Consensus (1979)	97
IV Agreeing to be Governed	100
A. The Social Contract	100
1 Thomas Hobbes, Hobbes's Social Contract (1651)	104
2 John Locke, Locke's Social Contract (1690)	106
3 John Dryden, Right of Rebellion (1681)	111
4 David Hume, Of the Original Contract (1748)	112

5	Edmund Burke, The Contract of Eternal Society (1790)	114
6	Thomas Paine, The Need for Continuous Consent (1791)	116
B. The Right to Vote		118
7	Edmund Burke, Attack on Natural Rights (1790)	120
8	Thomas Paine, Defence of Natural Rights (1791)	121
9	The People's Charter of 1837	122
10	The Right to Vote (1647)	123
11	John Stuart Mill, The Vote as a Means of Self-protection (1861)	124
12	George Eliot, The Need for Moral Improvement (1866)	126
13	John Stuart Mill, Democracy as a Means of Improvement (1861)	127
14	Samuel Smiles, Democracy as a Result of Improvement (1859)	129
15	William Lovett, Temperance and the Working Man (1876)	130
16	Mary Wollstonecraft, The Education of Women (1792)	131
17	Harriet Taylor Mill, The Enfranchisement of Women (1851)	132
18	Rebecca West, Male Prejudice (1912)	134
19	Christabel Pankhurst, The Suffragette Movement (1904)	136
V Parties and Elections		139
A. Against and For Parties		139
1	Jonathan Swift, Parties in Lilliput (1726)	141
2	Hilaire Belloc, On a General Election (n.d.)	143
3	Francis Bacon, Government by Faction (1597)	144
4	Lord Bolingbroke, Party as a Political Evil (1738)	144
5	Jeremy Bentham, A Radical Approach on Parties (1824)	145
6	Sir Henry Maine, The Corrupt Party Politician (1885)	145
7	John Strachey, A Working Class Party (1936)	146
8	Edmund Burke, In Defence of Parties (1770)	147
9	His Majesty's Opposition (1826)	150
B. Parties and Elections		152
10	Charles Dickens, The Eatanswill Election (1836/7)	155
11	Anthony Trollope, Parliamentary Parties (1869)	159
12	M. Ostrogorski, Mass Membership Parties (1902)	161
13	A Democratic Socialist Party (1906-7)	163
14	Vernon Bogdanor, Proportional Representation (1984)	164

VI Democracy and Freedom	166
A. Liberalism and Democracy	166
1 John Stuart Mill, The Tyranny of the Majority (1859)	167
2 Isaiah Berlin, Individual Liberty and Democratic Rule (1958)	169
3 E. M. Forster, Two Cheers for Democracy (1951)	172
B. Bills of Rights and the Rule of Law	173
4 Magna Carta (1215)	174
5 Bill of Rights (1689)	175
6 A. V. Dicey, The Rule of Law (1885)	178
7 K. D. Ewing and C. A. Gearty, Breaches of the Rule of Law (the 'Spycatcher' Case) (1990)	180
8 K. D. Ewing and C. A. Gearty, A New Bill of Rights – the Case Against (1990)	181
9 Ferdinand Mount, A Written Constitution and Parliamentary Sovereignty (1992)	184
C. Freedom of Expression	185
10 John Milton, The Killing of Books (1644)	187
11 Lord Lindsay, Democracy and Discussion (1929)	188
12 R. H. S. Crossman, Theatre Censorship (1967)	190
13 Shabbir Akhtar, Religious Faith and Censorship (1989)	191
14 Salman Rushdie, Religious Faith and Free Speech (1991)	192
15 The Reporting of Parliament (1738)	193
16 Robert Southey, A Partisan Press (1807)	194
17 Humbert Wolfe, The British Journalist (n.d.)	195
18 E. P. Thompson, The Decline of Political Heresy (1980)	195
19 Howard Brenton and David Hare, The Making of the News (1985)	196
D. Democracy and Totalitarianism	198
20 George Orwell, Animal Farm (1941)	199
VII Nations and Empire	202
A. Nations	203
1 Bernard Crick, An Englishman's Passport (1988)	209
2 Lord Acton, In Defence of Multi-National States (1878)	211
3 Jonathan Swift, The Independence of Ireland (1724)	213

4	Wolfe Tone, The Society of United Irishmen (1791)	214
5	The Proclamation of the Irish Republic (1916)	216
6	Seamus Heaney, Christmas in Belfast, 1971	217
7	John Hewitt, Once Alien Here (1942)	220
8	The Declaration of Arbroath (1320)	220
9	Henry Cockburn, The Edinburgh Sedition Trials (1793-4)	221
10	John Maclean, A Scottish Workers' Republic (1920)	223
11	Hugh MacDiarmid, The Absence of Scottish Nationalism (1927)	224
12	Edwin Muir, The Irrelevance of Scottish Nationalism (1935)	226
13	Thomas E. Ellis, Welsh Disestablishment (1892)	227
14	Saunders Lewis, The Welsh Language and Nation (1937)	228
15	R. S. Thomas, A Dead Nation (1968)	230
B. Empire and Race		231
16	David Hume, Eighteenth-century Racism (1748)	233
17	Olaudah Equiano, A Slave's Experience (1789)	234
18	Rudyard Kipling, The White Man's Burden (1899)	236
19	George Lamming, The British Empire (1953)	237
20	Samuel Selvon, The Immigrant's Experience (1956)	239
21	Adewale Maja-Pearce, Cultural Chauvinism (1990)	240
22	Grace Nichols, The Many 'Englishes' (1984)	242
VIII Democracy and the Economy		243
A. Society, Economy, Market		244
1	Thomas Paine, A Natural Economic Order (1791)	246
2	Adam Smith, The System of Natural Liberty (1791)	247
3	Dugald Stewart, Forms of Government and Political Economy (1809-10)	248
B. Economic Consequences of Democracy		249
4	William Cobbett, Hopes of Parliamentary Reform (1831)	251
5	William Lovett, Political Rights and Popular Welfare (1837)	252
6	Lord Macaulay, Democracy and the Security of Property (1829)	253
7	Dugald Stewart, Democracy and Economic Policy (1855)	255
8	Samuel Brittan, Can Democracy Manage an Economy? (1977)	255

C. The State and the Economy	257
9 L. T. Hobhouse, Laissez-faire and Individual Liberty (1911)	260
10 Common Ownership of the Means of Production (1917)	262
11 Sidney Webb, Nationalisation (1918)	263
12 L. T. Hobhouse, Liberal Socialism (1911)	264
13 John Maynard Keynes, Against Laissez-faire and State Socialism (1926)	266
14 C. A. R. Crosland, Socialism and State Ownership (1956)	268
15 Margaret Thatcher, The Welfare State and Individual Responsibility (1979)	271
16 A. V. Dicey, The Unpredictability of Democratic Demands (1905)	273
IX A Democratic Culture?	275
A. The Democratic Spirit	275
1 William Blake, London (1789)	277
2 Percy Bysshe Shelley, Let a Great Assembly Be (1819)	278
3 Edward Carpenter, Towards Democracy (1883)	281
4 D. H. Lawrence, A Democracy of Single Selves (c.1917)	285
5 W. H. Auden, 1st September 1939	286
6 Charles Dickens, Poor Relations (1853)	289
7 George Orwell, Snobbery (1937)	289
B. Culture and the Masses	292
8 William Wordsworth, From Common Life (1800)	294
9 Charles Kingsley, Democratic Art (1850)	295
10 Matthew Arnold, Sweetness and Light (1869)	296
11 Wyndham Lewis, The Mass Mind (1925)	299
12 T. S. Eliot, A Hierarchy of Cultures (1948)	300
13 Raymond Williams, Culture is Ordinary (1958)	301
14 Tony Harrison, On Not Being Milton (1978)	305
Bibliography of Sources	306
Biographical Notes	312
Copyright Acknowledgements	328
Index	332