

Acknowledgements

Preface

Introduction

Dubious dichotomies and deceptive symmetries

The importance of context in language education

A discourse perspective

Notes

1: Educational challenge

Of challenges and conditions

Challenge as action

Challenge as paradox

Challenge as dialogue

Double-voiced discourse

Dialogic breakthrough

Notes

2: Contexts of speech and social interaction

What's in a context?

Discourse and culture

Contextual shaping

Conclusion

Notes

3: Teaching the spoken language

Five case studies

Problems and paradoxes

Teaching language as (con)/text

Notes

4: Stories and discourses

Dimensions of particularity

Understanding of particularity

Conclusion

Notes

5: Teaching the literary text

Current practices

Defining the reader

Teaching the narrative

Teaching poetry

Post-teaching activities

Conclusion

Notes

6: Authentic texts and contexts

What is cultural authenticity?

The communicative proficiency approach

The discourse analysis approach

The challenge of multimedia

Notes

7: Teaching language across the cultural faultline

Cultural reality and cultural imagination

C2, C2': reconstructing the C2 context of production and reception
C1, C1': constructing a context of reception in the learner's native culture
C1", C2": in the eyes of others
Of bridges and boundaries
Notes

8: Looking for third places
A popular culture
A critical culture
An ecological culture
Conclusion
Notes

Appendices
Bibliography
Index