

Contents

Preface	IX
1 Learning to read in another language	1
Learning to Read in the First Language	2
Learning to Read in Another Language	5
Principles for Teaching Reading	6
2 Learning to recognise and spell words	9
Prerequisites for Formal Reading Instruction	9
Phonics and the Alphabetic Principle	13
The Role of Phonics in a Reading Programme	14
Spelling: Productive Phonics	15
Learning to Spell	18
Spelling and Meaning - focused Input	18
Spelling and Meaning - focused Output	18
Spelling and Meaning - focused Learning	19
Designing a Focused Spelling Programme	22
3 Intensive reading	25
Focuses in Intensive Reading	27
Features of a Good Reading Exercise	28
Are Comprehension Questions Good Reading Exercises?	29
Comprehension of the Text	32
The Focus of Comprehension Questions	34
Standardized Reading Procedures	37
Vocabulary	37
Grammar Features in the Text	40
Cohesive Devices	44
Genre Features	47
Handling the Exercises	48
The Role of Teaching Exercises	48
4 Extensive reading	49
Understand the Goals and Limitations of Extensive Reading	50
Find your Learners' Present Vocabulary Level	51
Provide Plenty of Interesting and Appropriate Reading Texts	52
Set, Encourage and Monitor Large Quantities of Extensive Reading	53
Support and Supplement Extensive Reading with Language-Focused Learning and Fluency Development	54
Help Learners Move Systematically Through the Graded Reader Levels	55
Simplified and Unsimplified Texts	57
Other Ways of Supporting Extensive Reading	58

The Extensive Reading Programme	60
5 Reading faster	61
The Nature and Limits of Reading Speed	62
The Nature of Fluency Development	64
The Nature of Fluency Development Activities	65
Increasing Oral Reading Speed	66
Increasing Careful Silent Reading Speed	68
Increasing Silent Expeditious Reading Speed	70
Frequently Asked Questions About Reading Speed	71
6 Assessing reading	75
Motivating	75
Measuring Achievement	77
Diagnosing Problems	79
Measuring Reading Proficiency	83
Issues in Making and Using Comprehension Tests	91
7 Helping learners write	93
Principles for Teaching Writing	93
Designing Tasks	95
Experience Tasks	96
Bringing Tasks Within the Learners' Experience	96
Making Sure Learners have the Experience to do a Task	97
Shared Tasks	98
Guided Tasks	100
Independent Tasks	109
Using the Four Kinds of Tasks	110
8 The writing process	113
The Parts of a Writing Programme	113
Meaning-focused Writing	113
The Parts of the Writing Process	114
Considering the Goals of the Writer and Model of the Reader	115
Gathering Ideas	117
Organising Ideas	119
Ideas to Text	119
Reviewing	119
Editing	120
Diagnosing Control of the Parts of the Writing Process	123
Diagnosing from the Written Product	123

9	Topic types	127
	The Topic Type Hypothesis	127
	Topic Types and Writing	130
	Topic Types and Reading	131
	Limitations of the Topic Type Approach	134
10	Responding to written work	137
	Motivating	137
	Improving the Quality of Writing	138
	Measuring Proficiency in Writing	146
	Conclusion	149
	Appendix 1 Spelling and Pronunciation-Points of Correspondence	151
	Appendix 2 A List of Conjunction Relationships	161
	References	163
	Index	169