

Part I: Urban Rural Linkages

- 1: Discussing Rural–Urban Tourism: A Review of the Literature
- 2: Experiencing and Connecting to Nature: An Urban to Rural Association
- 3: Addressing Power: Stakeholder Involvement Within an Integrated Tourism Planning Process
- 4: Foodscapes as Alternate Ways of Knowing: Advancing Sustainability and Climate Consciousness through Tactile Space

Part II: Fringe Tourism

- 5: Cool Suburbs: a Strategy for Sustainable Tourism?
- 6: The Urban–Rural Tourism Relationship: A Case of Suburban Farm
- 7: Resident and Tourist Perception of People, Towns and Amenities in Fringe Settings

Part III: Strategies in Sustainability

- 8: The Urban–Rural Tourism Mix: A Partnership of Convenience or Sustainability Imperative
- 9: From Centre to Periphery: Inequality, Indigeneity and Domestic Tourism in Guatemala
- 10: Beyond Economic Development: Can the Arts Lead Communities Out of Poverty?
- 11: Theme Park as a Link between Urban and Rural Territories
- 12: Connecting Urban to Rural: Can the San Francisco–Napa Valley Relationship be Facilitated in Pennsylvania?
- 13: Farm and Food Tourism as a Strategy for Linking Rural and Urban Land, People and Place: The Case of Western North Carolina
- 14: Utah Farm-Chef-Fork: Linking Rural Growers with Urban Chefs to Enhance Local Food Sourcing
- 15: Corporate Sustainability as an Opportunity for Tourism Partnerships: A Case Study on Fairmont Hotels & Resorts